ReliaQuest Bowl Overview

The ReliaQuest Bowl has celebrated 38 years as one of the most respected college football bowls in the country. The game typically matches the two most popular conferences in college football, the Big Ten and Southeastern Conference along with the potential of either an ACC team or Notre Dame in select years. Fans from more than 40 states typically buy tickets to the Bowl each year and generate an annual economic impact of $30-$40 million for the Tampa Bay region. The bowl also creates tremendous national and international exposure while providing an exciting major sporting event for college football fans throughout the community. And as a 501(c) (3) tax-exempt organization the ReliaQuest Bowl has contributed more than $175 million to universities over its history. Finally, the ReliaQuest Bowl Charitable Giving Initiative distributes at least $500,000 each year to area charities currently totaling $4 million to more than 185 non-profits since 2016.

More than 200 businesses in the Tampa Bay region are involved as annual supporters of the ReliaQuest Bowl, as sponsors or through our VIP Club Member corporate ticket program, and some of the top business leaders in the region are among the hundreds of volunteers who serve on bowl committees.
